Triple-a-learning is our preferred provider of multi-modular leadership and development programs at various management levels. The fact that we have enjoyed their services for several years speaks for our complete satisfaction with their work.

Triple-a-learning designs programs which are tailor-made for our needs – considering various country cultures, target groups and topics. With their profound experience and training know-how they bring added value by contributing innovative concepts, methods and training topics to our own ideas.

We find their approach and methods to be an extremely effective mix of classroom training and classroom-enhancing elements. The training includes theoretical background together with practical activities building on the participants' day-to-day work, reflecting our corporate world and values. This is supplemented by elements such as 360° feedbacks, online feedbacks, PDA feedbacks and interim learning measures, the results of which are then integrated into the training design. In this way, we ensure a continual learning curve.

Triple-a-learning training modules make use of a wide variety of methods, empowering our employees to learn and develop in new ways.

In addition to learning and development, this integration of seminar and onsite activities creates and anchors a strong company loyalty together with an extraordinary network building among the staff.

Triple-a-learning trainers can all look back on years of business experience and a deep knowledge of the corporate world, which increases their credibility and standing with our participants. In addition, our participants appreciate the trainers' valuing and supportive attitude and actions towards our delegates.

Due to Triple-a-learning's effective method mix, their experienced trainers and their participant orientation, the company is held in high esteem, as participant feedbacks regularly show. We have complete confidence in Triple-a-learning and are happy to offer them our highest reference.
